Enrollment Open For Pee Wees In Sports Class

Time remains for enrollment of youngsters in what some educators have called "one of the best and most unique physical education programs devised."

It is Pee Wee wrestling, the creation of Dave Hengsteler, El Camino College physical education instructor and wrestling coach.

Originated as part of the summer recreation program for children of the El Camino College school district, Coach Hengsteler's plan calls for the teaching of "real" or traditional wrestling holds to boys from the ages of 5 to 12.

"Two developments are effected by the program. Physically, there is a great development in the growth of the large muscles of the body; and emotionally, because it is a teaching situation, the aspects of losing don't become so important," Hengsteler said.

Boys are taught the basic referee's position, escapes and such holds as the half-nelson.
